Introduction

The Statistical Yearbook of the Immigration and Naturalization Service contains data on the characteristics of the diverse groups of aliens processed in the Service's various data collection programs. The 1986 Yearbook represents a departure from recent yearbooks. While detailed data continue to be presented in tabular form, the tables have been revised for clearer and more concise presentation. Additionally, a description and analysis section has been included this year to facilitate understanding of the tables and the procedures used by INS to collect the information. As part of the narrative text, charts and maps appear for further illustration of the data.

Though data for fiscal year 1986 are featured in this Yearbook, historical data are also furnished. The major areas covered include immigrants admitted for legal permanent residence; refugees approved and admitted; asylees approved; nonimmigrant arrivals (e.g., tourists, students, etc.); aliens naturalized; aliens apprehended and expelled; and aliens inspected at ports of entry.

The statistics for 1986 reflect the increasing level and changing geographic origin of international migration to the United States. The number of immigrants admitted and the number naturalized in 1986 reached their highest levels in more than 30 years. In addition, approximately 300 million border crossings were recorded, more than 7 million tourists were admitted, and 1.8 million deportable aliens were apprehended. A large proportion of the new immigrants, naturalized citizens, tourists, and students were from Asian countries. Highlights for 1986 include:

- 601,708 immigrants were admitted—the highest total in over 50 years.
- Asia was the leading region of immigration with approximately 45 percent of the total.
- Nearly three-quarters of all immigrants intended to reside in six states: California, New York, Florida, Texas, New Jersey, and Illinois.
- Cuba was the leading country for refugee adjustments—the first year in the 1980s that Vietnam was not the leading country.
- 10.5 million nonimmigrants were admitted—70 percent were tourists.
- Over 60 percent of all nonimmigrants arrived at four ports: New York, Miami, Los Angeles, and Honolulu.
- More than 261,000 foreign students entered the United States.
- 280,623 aliens were naturalized—the highest total since 1944.
- For the first time Vietnam was the leading country of birth for naturalized citizens with 31,158.
- Nearly 50 percent of the naturalized citizens for the period 1981–86 were born in Asia.
- Apprehensions of deportable aliens reached an historical high of 1.8 million.
- More than 300 million people entered the United States across land borders in 1986.
- San Ysidro, California was the leading port of entry with 34.1 million entries.

The Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 was passed after the close of fiscal year 1986; therefore, statistics collected as a result of the 1986 Act will appear in future yearbooks.

I. Immigrants

Immigrants are aliens admitted for legal permanent residence in the United States. The procedures for admission depend on whether the alien is residing inside or outside the United States at the time of application for permanent residence. Eligible aliens residing outside the United States are issued immigrant visas by the U.S. Department of State and are admitted at U.S. ports of entry. Eligible aliens residing in the United States are allowed to change their status from temporary to permanent residence at district offices of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS).

A total of 601,708 aliens were admitted as immigrants during fiscal year 1986. Total admissions in 1986 were 5.6 percent higher than in 1985, representing the highest yearly total in more than 50 years. The increase above the fiscal year 1985 level was principally due to (1) an increase in the admission of immediate relatives of U.S. citizens, and (2) an increase in the adjustment of Cuban refugees who entered during the "Mariel boatlift" in 1980.

U.S. Immigration Policy

U.S. immigration law gives preferential immigration status to aliens who are related to certain U.S. citizens or legal permanent residents, aliens with needed job skills, or aliens who qualify as refugees. There are other categories of aliens who may qualify for immigration, but they account for relatively few admissions. Immigration to the United States can be divided into two general categories: (1) those subject to the annual worldwide limitation, and (2) those exempt from it.

Immigration Subject to the Worldwide Limitation

A maximum of 270,000 immigrants may be admitted annually under the worldwide limitation. Within this overall limitation, no more than 20,000 immigrants may come from any independent country and no more than 600 from a dependency. Visa allocation is determined by a system consisting of six preference categories, each with its own numerical limitation (Table A). The first, second, fourth, and fifth preferences are based on the alien's relationship with a U.S. citizen or legal permanent resident, and the third and sixth preferences are based on needed job skills. Aliens not eligible for any of the six preferences may qualify for the nonpreference category. Visas for the nonpreference category are issued when the authorized visas in the preference categories are not used. Heavy demand for preference visas has resulted in no nonpreference visas being issued since fiscal year 1978.

Table A
Worldwide Limited Immigrants (270,000 annually)

Preference	Provision	Percent and number of visas
First	Unmarried sons and daughters of U.S. citizens and their children	20% or 54,000
Second	Spouses and unmarried sons and daughters of permanent resident aliens	26% or 70,200*
Third	Members of the professions of exceptional ability and their sons and daughters	10% or 27,000
Fourth	Married sons and daughters of U.S. citizens and their spouses and children	10% or 27,000*
Fifth	Brothers and sisters of U.S. citizens (at least 21 years of age) and their spouses and children	24% or 64,800*
Sixth	Workers in skilled or unskilled occupations in which laborers are in short supply in the United States and their spouses and children	10% or 27,000
Nonpreference	Other qualified applicants	Any numbers not used above*

*Numbers not used in higher preferences may be used in these categories.

Immigration Exempt from the Worldwide Limitation

The major categories of immigrants exempt from the worldwide limitation of 270,000 are listed below.

- Immediate relatives of U.S. citizens:
  - Spouses
  - Children (including orphans)
  - Parents (of U.S. citizens at least 21 years of age)
- Refugees and asylees adjusting to permanent residence
- Special immigrants:
  - Certain ministers of religion
  - Certain former employees of the U.S. government abroad
  - Certain persons who lost U.S. citizenship
  - Certain foreign medical graduates
- Babies born abroad to legal permanent resident aliens

Data Overview

Total Immigration

The number of immigrants admitted during the 1980s has averaged approximately 571,000 per year. During the first decade of the 1900s, when immigration to the United States was at its highest level, annual admissions averaged 880,000. The differences between past and present immigration levels are more pronounced when comparing immigration rates based on the total U.S. population. The average annual number of immigrants admitted from 1980–86 was 2.4 immigrants per thousand U.S. inhabitants. The annual immigration rate during 1901–10 was approximately 4 times as great (10.4).

The nadir of U.S. immigration began with the great depression and ended at the conclusion of World War II. Since that time immigration has generally increased, and during the past year it reached its highest total in more than 50 years (Chart A). The 1986 immigration total of 601,708, however, is only slightly higher than the annual average for the 1980s. Legal immigration will continue to increase in the next few years as aliens are legalized under the provisions of the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986. Aliens granted temporary status under the Legalization Program will be eligible to adjust to permanent residence beginning in fiscal year 1988.

Region and Country

Asia had the highest number of admissions in 1986 (44.6 percent). This continues a trend that began with the elimination of country-specific immigration quotas by the 1965 amendments to the Immigration and Nationality Act. Immigration from Asia increased after the 1965 Act, while the number of immigrants entering from Europe decreased (Table B). Asia has had the highest immigrant total every year since 1978, when Indochinese refugees who were paroled into the United States were first allowed to adjust to permanent resident status.

Mexico and the Philippines continued as the countries with the highest number of immigrant admissions in 1986 (Table C). These countries had the highest totals in 1985, and have accounted for the most immigrants admitted during the 1980s. The five countries with the highest level of immigration to the United States during the 1980–86 period are Mexico (458,300), the Philippines (316,040), Vietnam (308,351), China (Mainland and Taiwan) (246,966), and Korea (234,117).

Cuba had the largest increase between 1985 and 1986 due to the adjustment of refugees who entered during the "Mariel boatlift". The 125,000 Cubans who entered the United States in 1980 became eligible to adjust their status during 1985 under the Cuban Refugee Act of 1966. Approximately 15,000 Cubans adjusted under this provision in 1985 and approximately 30,000 adjusted during 1986. The countries with the largest percentage increases in immigration between 1985 and 1986 were Cuba (62.9 percent), Bangladesh (42.6), Ireland (31.6), South Africa (29.4), and Haiti (24.6).

Immigration from Vietnam decreased 1,902 between 1985 and 1986 due to a decline in refugee adjustments. Other countries with declines in immigration between 1985 and 1986 included Taiwan (–1,471), Laos (–1,291), Poland (–983), and the U.S.S.R. (–933).

Categories of Admission

Immigrants Subject to the Worldwide Limitation

The number of immigrants admitted subject to the worldwide limitation is relatively constant from year to year since the demand for visas far exceeds the annual limit of 270,000. As of January 1986 there were 1.9 million active registrants awaiting numerically limited immigrant visas at consular offices abroad.[1] The number of immigrants admitted subject to the worldwide limitation, however, will increase slightly for the next two years due to a provision in the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986. The limit will be temporarily increased to 275,000 in fiscal years 1987 and 1988 to allow entry of an extra 5,000 immigrants per year from countries that were adversely impacted by the Immigration and Nationality Act Amendments of 1965.

Spouses and unmarried sons and daughters of legal permanent residents (second preference) accounted for 111,000 of the immigrants admitted under the worldwide limitation in 1986 (Table D). The next highest category of admission in 1986 was brothers or sisters of adult U.S. citizens and their families (fifth preference), with 70,000.

Immigrants Exempt from the Worldwide Limitation

The largest increase in immigration between 1985 and 1986, as in recent years, was in categories of admission exempt from the worldwide limitation.

Immigration of immediate relatives (spouses, parents, and children) of U.S. citizens has consistently increased over the last 10 years (Chart B). The total number of immigrants admitted as immediate relatives has increased from 112,000 in 1977 to 223,000 in 1986. Approximately 60 percent of the immediate relatives admitted in 1986 were spouses of U.S. citizens, with immigrants from Mexico accounting for 24 percent of the spouses. Almost 67 percent of the parents of U.S. citizens were born in Asia. Mexico, the Philippines, and Korea accounted for over half of the children of U.S. citizens admitted, and most of the children born in Korea were orphans adopted by U.S. citizens (6,188 orphans out of 6,865 total children).

The annual number of refugee adjustments is dependent on the number of arrivals of refugees in preceding years. Refugee adjustments in 1986 increased because the adjustment of Cuban refugees who entered in 1980 offset a decrease in the adjustment of Indochinese refugees. The number of refugee adjustments from Vietnam, Cambodia, and Laos decreased by 4,270 in 1986. The number of Indochinese refugees adjusting to permanent residence should continue to fall because arrivals have decreased in recent years. Asylee adjustments have reached their limit of 5,000 for the last three fiscal years and can be expected to reach that limit again in 1987 and 1988.

Geographic Distribution

The top six states of intended residence for new immigrants were California, New York, Florida, Texas, New Jersey, and Illinois. These states, which constituted 38 percent of the total U.S. population in 1986, were the intended residence of 72 percent of all immigrants admitted. These six states have been the leading states of residence for new immigrants every year since 1971, with California the leading state since 1976. In 1986, California accounted for 28 percent of all immigrants admitted.

The states with the highest rates of immigration based on population are somewhat different (Map, p. x). The leading states in fiscal year 1986 based on rates per 100,000 inhabitants were Hawaii (735.8), California (625.6), New York (620.2), New Jersey (454.6), and Florida (416.3).

Age and Sex

The numbers of males and females admitted in 1986 were almost equal (300,777 males and 300,931 females). A comparison of age distributions shows that immigrants are relatively more concentrated in the age groups from 20 to 34 years of age than the total U.S. population (Chart C). The median ages for the total U.S. population are 30.6 for males and 31.9 for females. The immigrants are younger, with median ages of 27.2 for males and 27.6 for females.

Occupation

Almost 40 percent of all immigrants admitted in 1986 reported having an occupation at the time of entry. Immigrants qualifying for immigrant status based on their job skills under the occupational preferences, which constituted only 3.8 percent of the total admissions, will enter the U.S. workforce in their reported occupations as shown in Table 19. These immigrants are composed of two groups: (1) members of the professions of exceptional ability (third preference), and (2) workers in skilled or unskilled occupations in which laborers are in short supply in the United States (sixth preference). The remaining immigrants have reported either the occupation in their last job before immigration or the occupation they have been trained in or are qualified to perform.

The leading occupational groups for third preference immigrants are engineers, surveyors, and mapping scientists (3,170); executive, administrative, and managerial occupations (2,518); postsecondary school teachers (950); and nurses (616). The leading groups for sixth preference immigrants are service occupations (4,528); precision production, craft, and repair occupations (1,608); executive, administrative, and managerial occupations (1,561); and nurses (664). For both third and sixth preference immigrants, labor certifications from the Department of Labor are generally required indicating that the entry of such persons will not adversely affect U.S. workers, wages, or working conditions.

Data Collection

Aliens arriving from outside the United States generally must have a valid immigrant visa issued by the U.S. Department of State to be admitted for legal permanent residence. Aliens who are already in the United States in a temporary status and are eligible to become legal permanent residents are granted immigrant status by the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. Aliens entering the United States with immigrant visas are referred to as new arrivals, and those already in the United States who are granted permanent resident status are referred to as adjustments. The source of information on new arrivals is the immigrant visa (OF-155, Immigrant Visa and Alien Registration, U.S. Department of State) and the source of information on adjustments is the form granting legal permanent residence (I-181, Memorandum of Creation of Record of Lawful Permanent Residence, U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service). After the immigrant is admitted, the immigrant visa and adjustment forms are forwarded to INS' Immigrant Data Capture (IMDAC) facility for processing. The IMDAC facility generates statistical records which are the source of the statistics on immigrants presented in this report. The variables collected include port of admission; type (or class) of admission; countries of birth, last residence, and nationality; age, sex, and marital status; occupation; original year of entry and class of entry for those adjusting from temporary to permanent residence; and the zip code of the immigrant's intended residence.

Limitations of Data

The number of immigrants admitted for legal permanent residence in a year is not the same as the number of net migrants who enter the United States in the year. The reasons for the difference in counts are:

1) Immigrant adjustments are reported in the year aliens adjust their status to legal permanent residence and not in the year they actually migrate to the United States.

2) Some immigrants (such as refugees and asylees) may never be counted as legal permanent residents even though they reside permanently in the United States (i.e., they are not required to adjust to permanent resident status).

3) Information on emigration, or aliens permanently departing the United States, and information on net illegal immigration is not available (see Data Gaps section).

Most immigrants adjusting to legal permanent residence entered the United States on a permanent basis prior to their year of adjustment. The year of last arrival for adjustments and new arrivals appears in Table 10. Approximately 94 percent of the aliens adjusting to legal permanent residence in fiscal year 1986 last entered the United States in calendar year 1985 or earlier. Many of the adjustments are refugees who legally must wait one year before applying for permanent resident status and, therefore, do not appear as immigrants until they adjust their status. Some refugees may never appear as immigrants because they do not apply for permanent residence.

The numbers of emigrants and net illegal migrants are unknown; however, some estimates have been developed by the U.S. Bureau of the Census to estimate national population totals. The Census Bureau estimates that total emigration (native and foreign-born) since 1980 has averaged 160,000 per year. The available research indicates that the net increase in the illegal population has been in the 100,000 to 300,000 range annually during the 1980s. The Census Bureau uses an estimate of 200,000 net growth due to illegal immigration in its annual population estimates.

II. Refugees

The Immigration and Nationality Act, as amended by the Refugee Act of 1980, governs the admission of refugees into the United States. A refugee, as defined by the Act, is any person who is outside his or her country of nationality who is unable or unwilling to return to that country because of persecution or a well-founded fear of persecution. Claims of persecution may be based on the alien's race, religion, nationality, membership in a particular social group, or political opinion. Persons within their country of nationality may be treated as refugees, provided that the President has defined these countries as having special refugee circumstances, after consultation with Congress The definition of refugee set forth in the Refugee Act of 1980 conforms to that of the 1967 United Nations Protocol on Refugees.

The authorized ceiling for refugee admissions has decreased each year from a high of 231,700 in fiscal year 1980 to 67,000 in 1986. Refugee approvals declined 12.4 percent from 59,436 in 1985 to 52,081 in 1986. Following the same trend, refugee admissions into the United States declined from 62,477 in 1985 to 58,329 in 1986, a decrease of 6.6 percent. These declines are due to decreases in the flow of refugees from Indochina and to the determination that there are fewer Indochinese refugees remaining in refugee camps who are of special interest to and qualify for admission to the United States.

NOTE: For the period 1946–56, admissions to lawful permanent resident status and initial admissions were the same.

A total of 99,383 refugees adjusted to lawful permanent resident status during 1986, an increase of 10.4 percent over 1985. Adjustments of 30,326 Cuban refugees were responsible for this increase, resulting from an adjustment program conducted in 1985–86 for Cubans who entered the United States in 1980 as part of the "Mariel boatlift".

U.S. Refugee Policy

Before each fiscal year, the President, in consultation with Congress, reviews the worldwide refugee situation, determining the number of refugees in need of resettlement, those who are of special humanitarian concern to the United States, and the authorized number of admissions for the ensuing fiscal year. The admission ceiling of 67,000 for 1986 was divided among the five geographic regions as follows:

Africa	3,000
East Asia	45,500
Eastern Europe and U.S.S.R.	9,500
Latin America and Caribbean	3,000
Near East	6,000

The authorized admission levels are the maximum number of refugees allowed to enter the United States in a fiscal year for each of the five geographic areas of chargeability.

Refugees are processed and approved for admission to the United States by Immigration and Naturalization Service officers from the Service's fourteen overseas offices. In order to qualify for admission to the United States as a refugee, each applicant must meet all of the following criteria: be a refugee as set forth in the Refugee Act of 1980; be among the types of refugees determined to be of special humanitarian concern to the United States; be admissible under the Immigration and Nationality Act; and not be firmly resettled in any foreign country.

Under the Refugee Act of 1980, refugees are eligible to adjust to lawful permanent resident status after one year of residence in the United States and are exempt from the worldwide annual limitation of 270,000 immigrants. Upon adjustment, the date of admission is recorded as the date of entry as a refugee, so that the length of time spent in refugee status is counted toward the residency requirement for naturalization purposes.

Data Overview

The United States first recognized refugees for entry into the country in fiscal year 1946. Since that time there have been many different refugee programs enacted on an ad hoc basis, such as the Displaced Persons Act and the Cuban and Indochinese Adjustment Acts. During the first decade of refugee programs, virtually all refugees entered the United States as immigrants. Since 1957, most refugees either have been paroled into the United States under special authority granted to the Attorney General by the Immigration and Nationality Act, or have entered in refugee status, to be adjusted to immigrant status at a later date. Chart D depicts initial refugee admissions and admissions to lawful permanent resident status for the period 1946–86. This demonstrates the time lag between initial admission and adjustment to immigrant status. At the onset of parole programs there generally were no mechanisms for adjustment to permanent status, thus necessitating special legislation.

In the 40-year history of refugee admissions, the primary sending areas have shifted (Chart E). Between 1946 and 1960, 94.7 percent of the refugees granted immigrant status were from Europe. Through the 1960s and early 1970s, North America predominated, with 51.1 percent of the refugees for that period (primarily from Cuba). In the late 1970s, when Indochinese refugees began adjusting status, Asia became the secondary refugee region with 39.1 percent. Thus far through the 1980s, Asia has been the major sending area, accounting for 75.2 percent of the refugees. This trend is expected to continue since Indochinese currently compose the largest group of refugees admitted to the United States.

A comparison of initial admissions of refugees by area of chargeability for 1982 and 1986 reveals that, although the number of refugees admitted has declined, the geographic distribution has remained proportionately similar over time. The East Asian category, which covers Indochina, constituted the largest group with 74.8 percent of refugee admissions in 1982 and 71.4 percent in 1986. Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union comprised 14.4 percent of refugees in 1982 and 15.9 percent in 1986. Latin America and Africa, the two areas with the smallest number of admissions, together constituted 4.0 percent of refugee admissions in 1982, declining to 2.3 percent in 1986. The Near East grew from 6.8 percent of total admissions to 10.4 percent due to an increase in refugees from Iran.

Data Collection

The Immigration and Naturalization Service collects data on refugees at three points during their processing: when they apply for refugee status abroad, when they are admitted to the United States, and when they adjust to lawful permanent resident status. The INS overseas offices collect data on applicants for refugee status. Each office submits INS Form G-319, Report of Applicants for Refugee Status under Section 207, which reports refugee casework by the country to which each applicant is chargeable.

Each month INS ports of entry collect data on refugees initially admitted to the United States. The ports submit a report of admissions by nationality from the refugee's Form I-94, Arrival/Departure Record. The Nonimmigrant Information System (NIIS) also collects data on refugee admissions on Form I-94. This system, however, collects all entries of persons with refugee status, as they travel abroad and reenter the United States.

Both the Bureau for Refugee Programs, Department of State, and the Office of Refugee Resettlement, Department of Health and Human Services, also collect data on refugees admitted to the United States. The Bureau for Refugee Programs collects data through the Intergovernmental Committee for Migration, which is responsible for compiling the total number of refugees admitted to the United States. The Office of Refugee Resettlement, which is responsible for the disbursement of funds for refugee benefits, collects detailed data on the characteristics of refugees initially admitted to the United States.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service collects data on refugees adjusting to lawful permanent resident status as part of its immigrant data series gathered by the Immigrant Data Capture System (IMDAC). The data collected include demographic variables as well as immigration-oriented variables (see Immigrants section). This is the only stage in the refugee process where the INS collects detailed information about the characteristics of refugees in the United States.

III. Asylees

The Refugee Act of 1980 regulates U.S. asylum policy in addition to governing refugee procedures. The Act, for the first time, established a statutory basis for granting asylum in the United States consistent with the 1967 United Nations Protocol on Refugees. The definition of an asylee conforms to that of a refugee. The only difference is the location of the alien upon application; the asylee is in the United States or at a port of entry and the refugee is overseas.

The asylum casework of the INS rose from 16,622 cases received in fiscal year 1985 to 18,889 cases in 1986, an increase of 13.6 percent. Iran, Nicaragua, and Poland remained the three leading nationalities for persons granted asylum for 1986, constituting 77.2 percent of the total.

U.S. Asylum Policy

Any alien physically present in the United States or at a port of entry may request asylum in the United States. According to the Refugee Act, current immigration status, whether legal or illegal, is not relevant to an individual's asylum claim. An alien requesting asylum may apply in one of two ways, either with an INS district director, or, if apprehended, with an immigration judge in a deportation or exclusion hearing.

Asylum regulations require that an INS officer interview each applicant and consult the Bureau of Human Rights and Humanitarian Affairs, Department of State, for an advisory opinion on every asylum case. There are no limits set by law as to the number of individuals who may be granted asylum in the United States in a fiscal year. An alien denied asylum by the INS may renew the asylum request with an immigration judge during a deportation or exclusion hearing.

According to immigration law, an asylee must reside in the United States for one year to be eligible to apply for adjustment to lawful permanent resident status. Although exempt from the worldwide annual limitation of 270,000 immigrants, only 5,000 asylees may adjust each year. One year of the asylee's residence prior to adjustment is counted toward the naturalization residency requirement.

Data Overview

For the fiscal years prior to passage of the Refugee Act of 1980, the number of asylum applications received by the INS averaged approximately 3,600 per year. During the fiscal years since passage, the number received has averaged over 30,000 applications per year. In fiscal year 1981, the first complete year after enactment of the new asylum procedures, filing of asylum applications reached a high of 61,568 cases. After 1981, the number of applications declined to a low of 16,622 in 1985, before increasing to 18,889 in 1986.

For the third straight fiscal year, asylee adjustments to lawful permanent resident status have reached the limit of 5,000 cases. Iran remains the leading country of birth for asylee adjustments, accounting for 63.1 percent of the cases, which is consistent with data on asylee approvals for previous years. Since there is an expanding pool of approved asylees in the United States, asylee adjustments are expected to continue to reach the 5,000 limit.

Data Collection

The data on asylum applicants reflect those cases filed with INS district directors as reported on INS Form G–23.3 Supplement A (Asylum Cases Filed with District Directors Pursuant to Section 208, INA). Each office reports asylum casework according to the nationality of asylum applicants. In addition to cases granted, the number of individuals covered by those cases is collected, since one case may cover more than one person. Data on asylum applicants have been collected by the INS for selected nationalities since July 1980, and since June 1983 for all nationalities.

As with refugees, the Immigration and Naturalization Service collects data on asylees adjusting to lawful permanent resident status in the Immigrant Data Capture System (IMDAC) (see Immigrants section). Adjustment to immigrant status is the only point at which detailed characteristics of asylees are collected.

Limitations of Data

Data on applicants for asylum collected by the Immigration and Naturalization Service cover only cases filed with the INS. The data do not cover those cases filed by apprehended aliens or the cases denied by the INS which were renewed with immigration judges, who are part of the Executive Office of Immigration Review in the Department of Justice. However, the data collected by the INS at the time asylees adjust to permanent resident status cover aliens previously granted asylum by both district directors and immigration judges.

IV. Nonimmigrants

A nonimmigrant is an alien admitted to the United States for a specified temporary period of time but not for permanent residence. The typical nonimmigrant is a tourist who visits for a few days to several months. However, there are numerous classes of nonimmigrant admission, ranging from students to ambassadors. A total of 10.5 million nonimmigrant arrivals were counted during fiscal year 1986. This represents an increase over 1985 of almost one million (8.9 percent), but is not the largest number of arrivals recorded; nearly 12 million nonimmigrants were admitted in both 1981 and 1982.

Nonimmigrant Admission

Nonimmigrants are defined in the Immigration and Nationality Act. Though tourists (temporary visitors for pleasure) are the most numerous nonimmigrant arrivals, a wide variety of temporary visitors to the United States fall within the nonimmigrant classification. Nonimmigrants include several types of visitors who are connected in some way with a foreign government: ambassadors, ministers, diplomats, and representatives to international organizations. Business people coming to the United States to engage in commercial transactions (though not for employment in the United States) also make up a substantial portion of nonimmigrant arrivals each year. Though not as numerous, treaty traders and treaty investors also enter temporarily to conduct trade or invest in enterprises under the provisions of treaties of commerce and navigation between the United States and foreign states. Temporary workers are allowed employment in the United States to perform services of an exceptional nature requiring distinguished merit and ability (such as a renowned concert pianist) or to perform temporary services or labor if unemployed persons capable of performing such service or labor cannot be found in this country (such as an agricultural laborer). Foreign students also are classified as nonimmigrants, ranking in volume only behind visitors for pleasure and visitors for business. The Glossary contains a detailed definition of nonimmigrants, a listing of each of the nonimmigrant classes of admission, and a detailed definition of each class.

For most nonimmigrant classes of admission there has been an "open door" policy by the U.S. government. There are no restrictions on the total number of admissions in any given year; indeed, tourists (the majority of nonimmigrants) are encouraged to visit as a boon to the U.S. economy. Strict rules do apply, however, regarding the grounds for nonimmigrant admission. Regulations, likewise, govern such areas as length and extension of stay, employment in the United States, accompaniment by family members, travel restrictions within the United States, and change of admission status. For example, ambassadors are allowed to remain in the United States for the duration of their service, students to complete their studies, visitors for business for a maximum of six months (plus six-month extensions), and aliens in transit through the United States not more than twenty-nine days (with no extensions). Most nonimmigrants are not allowed gainful employment while in the United States, though exceptions may be granted to students and to family members of international representatives. On the other hand, temporary workers come to the United States expressly for purposes of employment. Most nonimmigrant aliens may bring immediate family members with them; the exception is transit aliens other than foreign government officials. Transit aliens and fiances(ees) coming to the United States to marry U.S. citizens are the only nonimmigrants who are prohibited from changing to another nonimmigrant category while in this country.

Data Overview

Slightly fewer than 10.5 million nonimmigrants arrived in the United States in fiscal year 1986 (Table 38). Of this total, a large majority (70 percent) entered as tourists, with the next highest class of admission, tem porary visitors for business, accounting for only 18.5 percent. More than 261,000 foreign students entered the United States to pursue a full course of study (predominantly in academic institutions) accompanied by 27,000 spouses and children. In addition, 130,000 entered as exchange visitors to study, teach, or conduct research in the United States, bringing with them 33,000 spouses and children.

Nonimmigrants entering the United States in 1986 to represent foreign governments amounted to 168,000 (about two percent of total entries). This figure consists of nearly 94,000 foreign government officials, families, and attendants (including ambassadors, public ministers, career diplomats, and consular officers), over 59,000 foreign representatives, families, and attendants to international organizations, over 7,000 foreign government officials and families in transit through the United States, and almost 7,000 officials and family members serving the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Over 40 percent of all nonimmigrants entering the United States in 1986 were citizens of only four countries: Japan (16 percent), the United Kingdom (12 percent), Mexico (7 percent), and the Federal Republic of Germany (6 percent). Tourists far outnumbered other classes of entry for almost every country of citizenship (Chart F). More than 80 percent of Japanese nonimmigrants were tourists, compared to fewer than 70 percent of citizens of the United Kingdom, and only 40 percent of Chinese (Mainland China and Taiwan) (Table 38). Just as 4 countries dominated nonimmigrant admissions to the United States in 1986, so did 4 ports of entry. New York (26 percent), Miami (16 percent), Los Angeles (11 percent), and Honolulu (10 percent) together accounted for more than 60 percent of all entrants (Table 41).

As noted, the 1986 total of 10.5 million nonimmigrant arrivals represents an increase of almost one million (8.9 percent) from the previous fiscal year. Total admissions numbered about 6.3 million during 1975 and steadily increased to historical highs of about 11.8 million in both 1981 and 1982. Total arrivals stabilized at about 9.5 million from 1983 to 1985 after the downturn in 1983 (Chart G).

The overall volume of nonimmigrant arrivals has increased by sixty-seven percent since 1975. Table E shows the countries of last residence which increased the most during the period 1975–86. Visitors (mostly for pleasure) from Japan and the United Kingdom show by far the largest absolute increases. The Bahamas ranks very high, due mainly to a high volume of repeat visits throughout the period. Canada and Mexico do not appear on this list because most of the millions of visitors from these contiguous countries enter under expedited procedures and do not require visas or I-94s when entering the United States (see Data Collection section).

Admissions have shown a high degree of seasonality with nonimmigrants arriving in the United States mostly in the summer months (peaking in July) with a lesser but noticeable secondary peak in December. This trend can be observed from 1983 through 1986 in Chart H.

Data Collection

The Nonimmigrant Information System (NIIS) is an important component of the Servicewide automation that has accelerated rapidly during the past six years. The system, now in its fifth year of operation, is designed to provide for each nonimmigrant a record of legal admission, record the departure of each nonimmigrant, and to provide statistics for such variables as age, country of citizenship, class of admission, visa-issuing post, port of entry, and destination in the United States. Many nonimmigrants enter and leave the United States more than once each year and the NIIS system records each entry separately. The system is the largest in the INS with an active data base of over twenty million records and an additional "archive" of around twenty million.

Arriving foreign students were included in the NIIS system during its first two years of operation; however, arrival forms for this nonimmigrant class are now processed in a separate automated system, the Student/School System (STSC), designed to produce detailed statistics on foreign-student arrivals, departures, and the foreign-student population in the United States.

An understanding of the principal steps in the process of nonimmigrant admission to the United States is useful for understanding the data produced by the NIIS/STSC systems. First, a nonimmigrant visa is secured at a U.S. Consulate abroad. Prior to departing for the United States, nonimmigrants are screened initially by the transportation company to assure admissibility. During the trip INS Form I-94 is distributed to non-U.S. citizens. At the port of entry, each arriving nonimmigrant presents a visa and a completed Form I-94 to an immigration inspector. Among other actions, the inspector checks the form for completeness, determines the length of admission, and stamps the class of admission and port of entry on the form. The arrival portion is torn off, retained by the inspector, and sent to a central data processing facility. The matching departure section of the form, usually stapled into the passport, is the nonimmigrant's proof of legal admission to the United States. This section of Form I-94, collected at departure, is also sent to the data processing facility where it is keypunched and matched to the arrival section of the form.

The Nonimmigrant Information System also includes information on parolees (entering for humanitarian, medical, or legal reasons), withdrawals, stowaways, deferred inspections (admitted to appear at an INS office where formal inspection can be completed), and refugees. Refugees are also counted independently in a separate data system (see Refugee section). Data for these classes of admission are not shown in the nonimmigrant tables but are included in summary form in footnotes to the appropriate tables.

The Nonimmigrant Information System does not include data for permanent resident aliens returning after short visits abroad who are technically defined as nonimmigrants, or for most of the millions of citizens of Canada and Mexico who cross the border for brief periods of time. Most aliens entering the United States from Canada or Mexico do not require any documentation: Canadians may travel for business or pleasure without travel restrictions for a period of six months without requiring nonimmigrant visas; Mexicans crossing the border frequently may apply for border crossing cards which can be used for admission to the United States for business or pleasure within twenty-five miles of the Southwestern border for a period not to exceed seventy-two hours. The procedures used to count border crossers and to determine the citizen/alien breakdown vary significantly among ports (see Entries section).

Limitations of Data

While the development of the current NIIS/STSC data base systems produced a marked improvement beginning in 1983 for the collection and dissemination of data on nonimmigrant arrivals and departures, collection and update procedures create inherent problems and limitations in the data. As alluded to earlier, the data systems record arrivals via collection of Form I-94; thus, data represent each arrival event during the year rather than the actual number of individuals admitted. Nonimmigrants in several classes of admission, especially students and visitors for business, often execute multiple entries in any given year.

Recording departures is a major area of concern within the data systems. While nearly all of the arrivals are recorded in the systems, the collection rate for departures, especially at land borders, is considerably lower. This arises predominantly from the fact that arriving nonimmigrants are universally inspected by immigration inspectors, at which time Form I-94 is collected while departure forms are less likely to be collected. At air terminals, through which ninety percent of visitors depart, the representative of the air carrier rather than an INS official has responsibility for the collection of the departure portion of the I-94. At land borders there is often no arrangement for the collection of the document. This inconsistency in the collection process is a source of "system error" when arrival and departure records are matched, giving the false indication that many more visitors overstay their period of admission than actually do.

Finally, there are gaps in the historical nonimmigrant data series due to the INS' loss of arrival and departure records for July to September 1979, all of 1980, and for most characteristics for 1981 and 1982. Data for country of last residence and class of admission are the only variables available for 1981 and 1982.

V. Naturalizations

Aliens naturalized refer to those aliens upon whom U.S. citizenship was conferred by a naturalization court or, if outside the United States, by a representative of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. As part of the naturalization process, applicants pledge an oath of allegiance to the United States, thereby renouncing allegiance to their former countries of nationality.

The 280,623 aliens naturalized in fiscal year 1986 constitute the largest number of naturalizations since 1944, when 441,979 people naturalized (Chart I). The 1986 figure represents a 14.7 percent increase over the 244,717 naturalizations in fiscal year 1985. The number of naturalizations has been rising steadily since a slight decline during the 1978–80 period. Although the 3 leading countries of birth remained constant for persons naturalizing from 1985 to 1986—Vietnam, the Philippines, and Mexico—Vietnam moved from third to first place, (31,158 persons naturalized) replacing the Philippines (31,075). The number of new citizens from Vietnam increased by nearly 13,000 from the previous year, the largest increase of any country for the year.

U.S. Naturalization Policy

In order to naturalize and become a U.S. citizen, an immigrant must fulfill certain requirements set forth in the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA) concerning age, lawful admission, and residence in the United States.

Chart J

Source: 1986, Table 51; 1951–85, previous yearbooks.

Additional requirements include the ability to speak, read, and write the English language; knowledge of the U.S. government and U.S. history; and having good character. The general naturalization provisions specify that an alien must fulfill the following conditions: be at least eighteen years of age; have been lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence; and have resided in the country continuously for at least five years. These minimum requirements must be met for an alien to be considered for naturalization under the general provisions of immigration law. Over eighty-five percent of immigrants currently naturalize under the general provisions. The remaining immigrants who naturalize do so under the special provisions of the law (Chart I).

The special provisions of naturalization law exempt aliens from one or more of the requirements of the general provisions. Spouses and children of U.S. citizens and military classes constitute the main special naturalization categories. The majority of people naturalizing as spouses of U.S. citizens may do so in three years rather than the prescribed five years required under the general provisions. Children who immigrate with their parents generally do not naturalize, but derive their U.S. citizenship through the naturalization of their parents. Children adopted by U.S. citizens, however, naturalize to become U.S. citizens. These children may naturalize prior to reaching age eighteen with no residency requirements necessary after having been admitted for lawful permanent residence. Aliens who served honorably during World War I, World War II, the Korean Conflict, or the Vietnam Conflict, under certain conditions, may naturalize without prior admission to permanent residence. Also, they need not have resided in the country for a particular length of time. Although there are other special naturalization categories, those specified above currently account for over ninety percent of the naturalizations under special provisions.

Every applicant for naturalization in the United States must file an application for naturalization, either Form N–400, Application to File Petition for Naturalization, or Form N–402, Application to File Petition for Naturalization in Behalf of Child. All aliens filing these applications who appear to meet the naturalization requirements must be interviewed by an INS officer to determine their eligibility to naturalize. During the interview the officer discerns the applicant's knowledge and understanding of the English language as well as of the history and government of the United States. Those applicants found qualified are scheduled for a final hearing before a judge who performs the naturalization ceremony.

Data Overview

As the sending areas of immigrants admitted to the United States have shifted, so have the origins of persons naturalized. Data by region of birth indicate that major changes have occurred between 1951 and 1986 (Chart J). Naturalizations for Europe, the leading region through 1970, declined by seventy-five percent from the 1950s through the 1980s, while naturalizations for all other regions combined more than tripled during the same period. The Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952 removed all racial restrictions on naturalization, thus allowing increases in naturalizations for regions other than Europe. Asia has become the leading region of birth representing nearly fifty percent of all naturalizations for the 1981–86 period. The predominance of Asia as the region of origin for naturalizations echoes the increase in immigration from Asia as a result of the 1965 Amendments to the Immigration and Nationality Act and the arrival of Indochinese refugees beginning in 1975.

Since most naturalizations occur under the general provisions of naturalization law, the majority of aliens naturalizing must have resided in the United States for at least five years as lawful permanent residents. Data on persons naturalized by median length of residence indicate that the median number of years of residence for the total naturalized population has remained fairly constant over the last thirty years, at about eight years. Major differences, however, are evident between regions (Table F).

Table F
Median Years of Residence by Year of Naturalization and Region of Birth: Selected Fiscal Years 1960–86

Region of birth	1986	1980	1975	1970	1965	1960

Europe	9	10	8	9	7	7
Asia	7	7	6	6	6	6
Africa	7	7	6	6	6	6
Oceania	9	8	7	9	8	10
North America	13	11	9	7	9	10
South America	9	9	10	7	7	7

Source: 1986, Table 51; 1960-80, previous yearbooks.

Data by region for 1986 range from Asia and Africa with median lengths of residence of seven years, to North America at thirteen years. Historically there have been shifts in the median years of residence, as with Europe, North America, and South America. However, the data reveal that, in general, Asians and Africans tend to naturalize soon after they are eligible to do so, while aliens from other regions remain in the United States as lawful permanent residents for longer periods of time prior to naturalizing.

Data on naturalizations by selected country of birth for the 1970–79 immigrant cohort reveal major differences in naturalization rates by country (Chart K). The naturalization rates range from Canada, with 8.9 percent of the immigrant cohort having naturalized through fiscal year 1986, to Vietnam with 59.1 percent naturalized. Of the 15 leading immigrant-sending countries for the 1970–79 period, Asian countries have the highest naturalization rates. In addition to Vietnam, China (Mainland and Taiwan) (57.7 percent), the Philippines (56.4), Korea (51.4), and India (41.8) are the countries with the highest rates of naturalization. The two countries with the lowest rates are contiguous to the United States—Canada and Mexico (9.0 percent). Other countries within North America have higher rates of naturalization, such as Cuba (23.9 percent) and Jamaica (23.6 percent). The European naturalization rates range from 15.7 percent for the United Kingdom to 33.7 percent for Greece. The data by country are consistent with the data on median years of residence by region, which show that, as a group, Asians and Africans naturalize more quickly than persons from other regions.

Data Collection

Data on persons naturalized in the United States are collected by approximately sixty-five INS offices where aliens intending to naturalize may file their applications. The INS collects two types of data on naturalizations: workload statistics and data on the characteristics of aliens who have naturalized. The workload data consist of the number of naturalization applications received, the number of petitions filed with courts, as well as the number of aliens naturalized during a fiscal year. These data are collected by each INS office as part of the Service's work measurement data (see Entries section).

Chart K

Data on the characteristics of aliens naturalized in a fiscal year also are collected by INS offices where aliens file their naturalization applications. These detailed characteristics are collected either through the manual coding of data from the naturalization application or through the automated Naturalization Casework System (NACS), an application tracking system which has been implemented in several of the larger INS offices. The data collected on aliens naturalized include demographic variables (e.g., date and country of birth, sex, marital status, and occupation) as well as immigration-oriented variables (e.g., date of admission for permanent residence and section of naturalization law).

Limitations of Data

In addition to birth in the United States, there are four ways of becoming a U.S. citizen: naturalization in a court ceremony; derivation through the naturalization of parents; acquisition at birth abroad to citizen parents; and legislation naturalizing certain groups of persons. Data on naturalizations collected by the INS cover those aliens who have naturalized in court ceremonies each fiscal year. Individuals who have become U.S. citizens through the derivation or acquisition process are a part of the derivative citizenship data series collected by the INS. Aliens who become U.S. citizens through the legislative process are not covered by data collected by the INS. A recent example of the legislative procedure occurred upon the dissolution of the Trust Territory of the Pacific through which the Northern Mariana Islands became a commonwealth of the United States, making its residents U.S. citizens.

In recent years there have been problems with the completeness of data collected on derivative citizenship. Those INS offices which have the NACS system, in some instances, have not used the system for processing derivative casework, nor have the required data been processed through other means. Additionally, coding backlogs in nonautomated offices have caused severe deficiencies in the data on derivative citizenship collected by the INS. Therefore, since fiscal year 1984, data on derivative citizenship have not been published.

A second problem exists with the data collected on derivative citizenship in that the data have not included all individuals deriving or acquiring citizenship. Rather, the data have covered only those persons who have requested and been issued certificates of citizenship, regardless of when U.S. citizenship was derived or acquired. A person may request a certificate at any time after derivation, or may never request one. The resulting data only relate to the administrative function of issuing certificates of citizenship. The naturalization data, therefore, are underreported because of the deficiencies of the data on derivative citizenship. The INS is designing a new procedure for collecting complete statistics on derivative citizenship to correct these problems. The new collection system is expected to begin operation in October 1987.

VI. Enforcement

This section covers a variety of actions that the INS groups as enforcement: apprehensions, expulsions, and exclusions. Apprehensions are arrests of aliens in violation of the Immigration and Nationality Act. If an alien is to be removed from the country, that removal may be effected by one of several means. The best known is deportation; however, most aliens are actually removed under a process called "voluntary departure with safeguards". Under this procedure an alien admits to illegal status and agrees to leave the United States. The alien further agrees to remain in custody until departure, and the departure is observed by an officer of the INS. If the alien refuses the offer of voluntary departure, or if no such offer is made, the alien is entitled to a hearing and is placed under "docket control" (an INS office takes control of the processing of the case and a file is created on the alien). An officer documents the grounds for deportability and prepares a case that may eventually be argued before an immigration judge. During this process an alien may be offered voluntary departure and, if accepted, the expulsion is known as a "required departure under docket control". In some cases the offer of voluntary departure will not or cannot be made; those cases may result in deportation. Other possible outcomes include adjustment to a legal status, a stay of deportation (such as the stays currently given to Polish nationals and others), or an alien who absconds. A deported alien may not be admitted to the United States for a period of five years after deportation unless the Attorney General grants a waiver of the prohibition. An apprehended alien who accepts the offer of voluntary departure and pays the expense of departing can be legally admitted in the future without penalty.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service has the initial responsibility for determining who may be admitted to the United States. In the past, the Statistical Yearbook included statistics for only those aliens who had been denied entry after a formal exclusion hearing before an immigration judge. However, the overwhelming number of aliens who fail to gain admission are those who withdraw their application during the inspection process after the INS presents evidence that they are inadmissible to the United States. Large numbers of aliens withdraw during primary inspection and even larger numbers withdraw during secondary inspection.

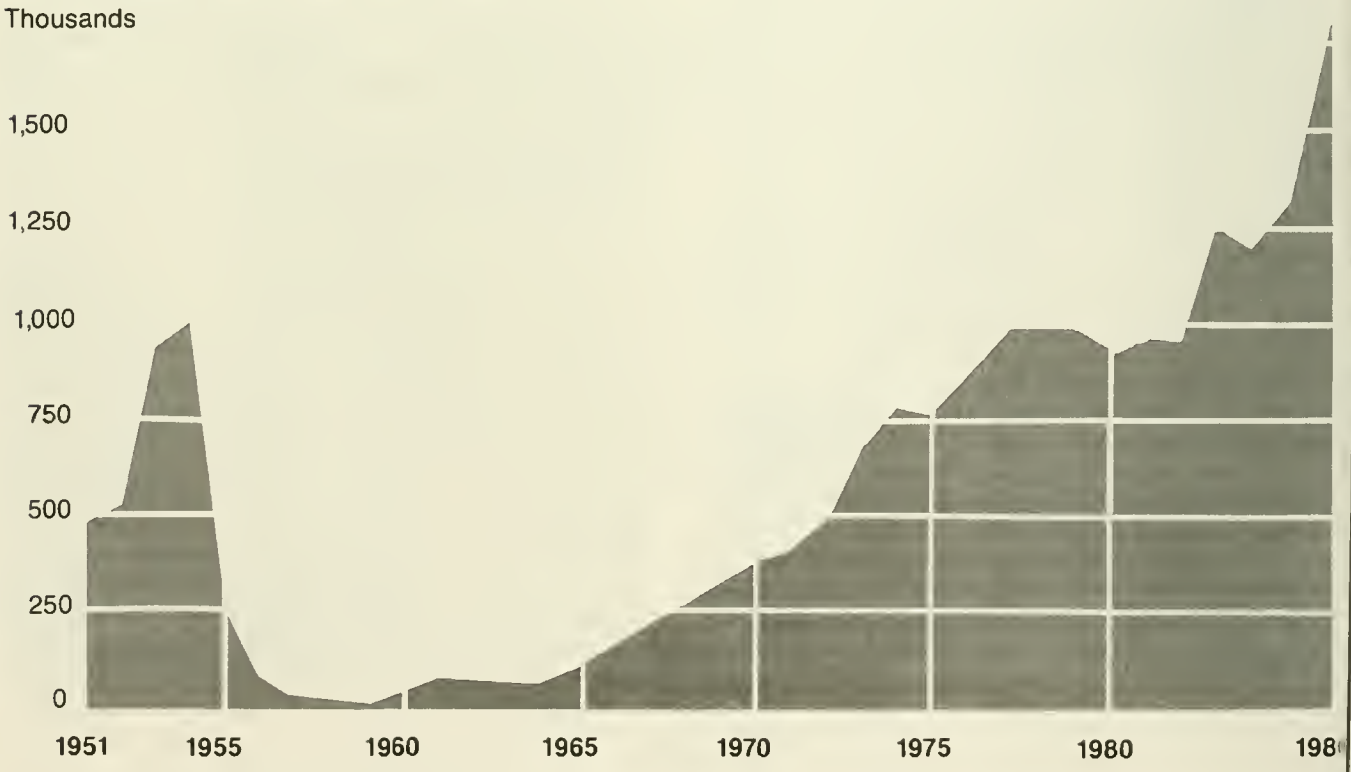
Apprehensions

The Immigration and Naturalization Service recorded slightly more than 21 million apprehensions from 1951 through 1986. Apprehensions increased dramatically during the 1970s, reaching a total of 8.3 million for the decade. Apprehensions continued to increase during the 1980s with fiscal year 1986 establishing an historical high of 1.8 million (Chart L). INS statistics on apprehensions include individuals who have been apprehended more than once during the reporting year.

Through fiscal year 1986, the INS data on apprehensions included very little demographic data. For example, only incomplete information was available about the age-sex distribution, occupation, or nationality of apprehended aliens. In order to improve these statistics, the INS began to compile statistics from Form I–213, Record of Deportable Alien, which it completes for each apprehended alien. A pilot test in March 1986 demonstrated that useful information could be compiled from a sample of these forms and the sample was begun on a regular basis in November 1986.

The March 1986 sample included 56 nationalities. Aliens from Mexico dominated the statistics on apprehensions, accounting for 97 percent of the total. The largest number of apprehensions for other nationalities were for El Salvador, Guatemala, Colombia, Nicaragua, Canada, and Honduras.

Chart L
Aliens Apprehended: Fiscal Years 1951–86



Source: Table 54.

Data on age and sex are recorded on Form I–213. Apprehended nonMexicans tended to be older than Mexicans; the median ages were 24.5 and 22.5 years, respectively. Apprehended Mexicans are overwhelmingly male (93 percent in March). NonMexicans were also more likely to be male, but the proportion of women was substantially higher. For example, 30 percent of Salvadorans were female as were 29 percent of Hondurans, 38 percent of Nicaraguans, 24 percent of Colombians, 23 percent of Guatemalans, and 21 percent of Canadians.

The work experience of apprehended aliens would be of interest for examining the labor market impact of illegal immigration. Unfortunately, most I-213 forms are not specific about the work status of apprehended aliens because most aliens are apprehended by the Border Patrol as they cross the border. These aliens generally claim to be seeking work and are most often recorded simply as "laborers".

One problem with the current data is that it is not possible to link apprehensions with dispositions (expulsion, adjustment of status, etc.). Expulsion proceedings take time, and final disposition of the case may occur in some later fiscal year. An automated case tracking system is in the planning stage; therefore, in future years it might be possible to link apprehensions with dispositions.

Expulsions

In the past, the Statistical Yearbook has treated deportations and required departures separately. Since both are expulsions, this description will treat them together. The INS enumerates the third and largest category of expulsions, voluntary departure under safeguard, for workload management purposes, and little information is available on this group. The bulk of these removals are of Mexican nationals who are returned across the southern border soon after their apprehension.

This Yearbook includes two new tables (58 and 61) that show the calendar year of actual expulsion. Tables in previous yearbooks display statistics for the fiscal year of verification of expulsion.

Expulsions under docket control
(Calendar year, actual)

1980	58,320
1981	68,898
1982	61,879
1983	59,098
1984	54,915
1985	59,421
1986	41,072

If all voluntary departures were included, the figures above would be much higher. For instance, in 1986 voluntary departures under safeguard numbered 1,548,816.

The distribution of docket control cases for individual countries has been relatively stable since 1980, with a few exceptions. The number of expelled Iranians dropped from 1,549 (2.7 percent of total expulsions) in 1980 to 390 (.7 percent) in 1985. Colombians increased from 1,740 (3.0 percent) in 1980 to 3,378 (5.7 percent) in 1985. The number of aliens from Mexico under docket control has been fairly stable except for 1981 when 34,001 were expelled—almost 6,500 more than the next highest year. The numbers of Salvadorans under docket control have fluctuated from a high of 6,844 in 1980 to a low of 4,584 in 1984 followed by an increase to 5,723 in 1985.

In 1985, the INS expelled aliens from 147 countries; 46 countries had more than 100 expulsions each. Mexican nationals were by far the most numerous, accounting for 41.7 percent of all expulsions under docket control. The top ten nationalities accounted for 78.8 percent of these expulsions.

Country	Number	Percent of total
Mexico	24,778	41.7
El Salvador	5,723	9.6
Colombia	3,378	5.7
Guatemala	3,212	5.4
Haiti	2,768	4.7
Dominican Republic	2,302	3.9
Honduras	1,484	2.5
Jamaica	1,469	2.5
United Kingdom	857	1.4
Ecuador	845	1.4

The data on expulsions (under docket control) reported in this Yearbook and in previous editions, must be used cautiously. One problem is the time lags in reporting expulsions. This time lag is different for deportations and required departures. Slightly more than 90 percent of deportations recorded in fiscal year 1986 actually occurred in that fiscal year; 7.5 percent were in fiscal year 1985 and the rest occurred earlier. Only 68.7 percent of the required departures recorded in fiscal year 1986 actually took place in fiscal year 1986; 18.8 percent were in fiscal year 1985, 4.8 percent in fiscal year 1984, and the rest were earlier. The reporting lag results primarily from a delay in receiving verification that an alien has left the country. As a result, the statistics may give a misleading impression about the numbers of aliens expelled in any given year. Therefore, beginning in 1986, the Yearbook will show data by calendar year of actual expulsion. However, such data will need to be continuously updated and cannot be considered complete for at least four years. The fiscal year data are retained for comparison with previous yearbooks.

Another area of caution involves the types of data on expulsions that the INS collects. The INS originally designed these data sets for administrative purposes, hence their analytical value is limited. The "cause" for expulsion (Tables 59 and 63) reflects only the final charge upheld against an alien. The INS pursues (or accepts) lesser charges when it is in the government's interest to do so. Most aliens are charged with illegal entry or violation of nonimmigrant status, but some of those cases initially carried more serious charges (e.g., criminal or narcotics charges). Finally, the destination and nationality of an expelled alien need not match. The inconsistency rate in fiscal year 1986 is 2.7 percent for deportations and 20.1 percent for required departures.

Exclusions

There are a number of opportunities for an alien to withdraw a request for admission to the United States before the formal exclusion process before an immigration judge. In fiscal year 1986, 204,772 aliens withdrew during primary inspection. Another 477,487 aliens withdrew during secondary inspection. Only 8,170 aliens continued their case before an immigration judge. Of this latter group, 2,241 aliens were formally excluded.

The INS has detailed data for only those aliens who are formally excluded. These data are limited, with only country of birth and cause of exclusion being of general interest. Four countries account for slightly more than half of all exclusions: Haiti (496), the Dominican Republic (382), Mexico (180), and Colombia (162).

VII. Entries

The Immigration and Naturalization Service admits roughly 300 million persons (aliens and U.S. citizens) into the United States each year. Individuals who seek entry into the United States are inspected at ports of entry by immigration officers to determine admissibility. The estimated number admitted in 1986 increased to 320 million, which was 4.2 percent above the level estimated in 1985. As in past years, admissions at Mexican border ports were nearly 60 percent of total admissions, while admissions at Canadian border ports stayed at about 30 percent. The remaining 10 percent were mainly persons arriving through interior ports of entry.

Inspections

The inspection process involves all work performed in connection with the inspection of aliens and the examination of citizens entering the United States, including preinspection performed by the INS outside the United States. An inspector is responsible for determining the nationality of each applicant for admission and if an alien, admissibility according to the requirements of U.S. immigration law.

The two main functions within the inspections operation are classified by the INS as primary and secondary inspections. Primary inspection is conducted to decide admissibility at initial contact with the applicant; the person is admitted when no further action or additional documentation is needed. Secondary inspection occurs when grounds for admissibility cannot be established during primary inspection. Those who do not meet requirements for admission are ultimately excluded or denied entry into the United States (See Enforcement section).

All individuals inspected fall into one of two categories: alien or U.S. citizen. Within these categories, statistics are maintained for border crossers, crewmen, and documented aliens. Border crossers are generally those aliens or U.S. citizens who enter the United States from Canada or Mexico for brief periods or in a commuter status. Crewmen include aliens or U.S. citizens who are employed on a vessel or aircraft operating between U.S. territories and foreign countries. Documented aliens are individuals entering the United States, generally from countries other than Canada or Mexico, who arrive with various kinds of supporting documents, such as legal permanent resident documents, refugee travel documents, or immigrant or nonimmigrant visas.

Data Overview

The Immigration and Naturalization Service conducted an estimated 320 million primary inspections in fiscal year 1986. Of these, 58 percent were estimated to be aliens and 42 percent U.S. citizens. The estimated total number of aliens (187 million) was composed of 90 percent border crossers, 1.7 percent crewmen, and 7 percent documented aliens. Citizen admissions (13 million) were 87.6 percent border crossers, 1.1 percent crewmen, and 11.3 percent entries from other than Canada or Mexico.

In fiscal year 1986, two states, Texas and California, accounted for 53 percent (170 million) of total admissions. The largest numbers of admissions occurred in San Ysidro, California (34 million) and El Paso, Texas (3 million) (see Table 68 and Chart M).

Data Collection

Data on inspections are compiled from the G–23 Report of Field Operations, a management report showing workload and resource summaries for most INS central office and field activities. The report is currently created using manual input procedures. The process begins when employees fill in daily workload forms. Consolidated office-level forms are mailed from 170 inspection ports of entry to the INS central office in Washington, D.C. for processing on a monthly basis. The reporting cycle takes about six weeks from the time data are collected in the field to the time reports are produced and distributed. Data from Form G–23 are also used to construct Yearbook tables on deportable aliens located (see Enforcement section).

Limitations of Data

With the current level of editing, the estimated error for reported counts of aliens and citizens is less than five percent. However, the error for alien and citizen counts at the point of collection has not been estimated, partly due to the variation in estimation methodologies applied at each port of entry. Although inspections data are believed to be accurate enough to estimate INS workload and resource requirements, caution must be used in the interpretation of these data. The admission figures for aliens and citizens should, at best, be considered estimates that contain unspecified measurement error.

The figures for border crossers reported in 1986 are not comparable with statistics for previous years due to a definitional change. As a result, the table showing admissions by state and port for 1986 includes total estimated primary inspections instead of just "border crossers" as in the 1985 Yearbook. A table for border crossers, generally consistent with previous years (but not included in this report), has been compiled for 1986 for use as a reference table.

VIII. Public Use Tapes

Information on aliens granted immigrant status may be purchased on magnetic tapes or diskettes from the National Technical Information Service (NTIS). These tapes contain information on immigrants admitted from fiscal years 1972–86. The data files come on five tapes, each covering a three-year span. The variables included on the tape for fiscal years 1984–86 are:

- Port of entry
- Month of admission
- Year of admission
- Class of admission
- Age
- Country of birth
- Marital status
- Sex
- Nationality
- Occupation
- Type of case
- Country of chargeability
- Labor certification
- Country of last permanent residence
- Nonimmigrant class of entry
- Nonimmigrant year of entry
- INS district of intended residence
- Zip code of intended residence

The source tape is formatted in EBCDIC character set and is available in 9 track 1600 bpi or 6250 bpi. Documentation is also included with the tape by year. For information on how to order the tapes or diskettes, please call the Computer Products Office of the NTIS at (703) 487-4763.

The Statistical Yearbook may also be purchased from the NTIS in paper copy or microfiche form beginning with fiscal year 1965. Prior to 1978, INS statistical data were included in the Annual Report of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Those reports contain descriptions of INS' activities and accomplishments in addition to the statistical tables. To order, call the NTIS at (703) 487-4650.

IX. Data Gaps

In recent years INS' capability for processing and distributing information about immigrants, temporary visitors, and other categories of international migrants has increased substantially as automation has proceeded throughout the Service. Despite these gains, however, gaps remain in our knowledge about the flow of immigration to and from the United States. In some areas these deficiencies persist because of the inherent difficulty in estimating the numbers, as is the case for emigration and illegal immigration. Although some progress has been made in recent years in estimating the level of emigration and illegal immigration, no information about either of these two categories is included in the Statistical Yearbook tables.

Emigration

The collection of statistics on emigration from the United States was discontinued in 1957; no direct measure of emigration has been available since then. Estimates compiled recently in this country and statistics collected by other countries demonstrate that emigration from the United States has continued, and probably increased considerably, since the 1950s.[2]

The estimates indicate that the average flow of alien emigration has exceeded 100,000 per year since 1970. These figures are consistent with U.S. historical experience; between 1900 and 1980, approximately 30 million immigrants were admitted, and an estimated 10 million foreign-born persons emigrated. The U.S. Bureau of the Census currently uses an annual emigration figure of 160,000, which includes both citizens and aliens, for computing national population estimates.

Information about emigration of the native-born population is limited, but estimates can be derived from census data and other information collected in various countries of the world. According to the 1977 U.N. Demographic Yearbook , average annual emigration of U.S. citizens from the United States to selected countries during the 1970–74 period was as follows: Australia, 13,000; Canada, 25,000; Germany, 28,000; Japan, 23,000; and the United Kingdom, 21,000. No information is available on how many of these persons later returned to the United States.

Illegal Immigration

The annual INS Statistical Yearbook does not include statistics on the number of illegal aliens entering or residing in the United States. The term "illegal alien" could be broadly defined as any foreign-born person present in the United States who is in a deportable status, including, for example, a tourist who departed a day or two late. The term could be more narrowly defined to include only those who have established residence and intend to remain here permanently. Obviously, the size of this population would vary considerably depending on the definition used. The estimates described briefly in this section correspond generally to the second, more restrictive, definition of the illegal population.

During the 1980s, empirically-based estimates of the number of illegal residents gradually replaced the more speculative figures that were reported in the 1970s. The most reliable data available indicate that the resident illegal population was in the range of about 2 to 4 million in 1980. The Census Bureau's Current Population Survey (CPS) has been used to monitor changes in the foreign-born population since 1980. Based primarily on data from the census and the CPS, the Census Bureau currently includes a net addition of 200,000 illegal immigrants per year in estimating the national population.

[1] Due to the problems with the newly automated naturalization system, data on naturalizations for fiscal year 1984 are incomplete. Workload data on petitions granted, an approximation of actual naturalizations, indicate that nearly 23,000 naturalization cases are missing from the Chicago, Houston, and San Francisco districts. The missing cases are arrayed as follows: Chicago, 7,000 of 14,000 cases are missing; Houston, 3,000 of 4,500; and San Francisco, 13,000 of 27,000. These missing cases are not necessarily randomly distributed within each district.

- Represents zero.

NOTE: The data reported in this table represent court actions--the number of naturalization petitions filed with courts and the number of persons naturalized or denied in court hearings. An application for naturalization processed by the INS may be filed with the courts, recommended denied to the courts, returned to the applicant for more information, or nonfiled (withdrawn by the applicant). Approximately 17 percent of the completed applications to file a petition for naturalization currently are nonfiled and 10 percent are returned each fiscal year. See Glossary for fiscal year definitions.

[1] Due to problems with the newly automated naturalization system, data on naturalizations for fiscal year 1984 are incomplete. Workload data on petitions granted, an approximation of actual naturalizations, indicate that nearly 23,000 naturalization cases are missing from the Chicago, Houston, and San Francisco districts. The missing cases are arrayed as follows: Chicago, 7,000 of 14,000 cases are missing; Houston, 3,000 of 4,500; and San Francisco, 13,000 of 27,000. [1] Due to problems with the newly automated naturalization system, data on naturalizations for fiscal year 1984 are incomplete. Workload data on petitions granted, an approximation of actual naturalizations, indicate that nearly 23,000 naturalization cases are missing from the Chicago, Houston, and San Francisco districts. The missing cases are arrayed as follows: Chicago, 7,000 of 14,000 cases are missing; Houston, 3,000 of 4,500; and San Francisco, 13,000 of 27,000. These missing cases are not necessarily randomly distributed within each district.

GLOSSARY

Glossary

Acquired Citizenship—Citizenship conferred at birth on a child born abroad to a U.S. citizen parent(s). Data for a fiscal year cover the number of certificates of citizenship issued during the year, regardless of when citizenship was acquired. The data are not necessarily a complete accounting of individuals who have acquired citizenship, since only those individuals who acquired citizenship and subsequently requested and were issued certificates of citizenship from the Immigration and Naturalization Service are included in the data.

Adjustment to Immigrant Status—Procedure allowing certain aliens already in the United States to apply for immigrant status. Aliens admitted to the United States in a nonimmigrant or other capacity may have their status changed to that of lawful permanent resident if they are eligible to receive immigrant visas as a permanent resident and an immigrant visa is immediately available. In such cases, the alien is counted as an immigrant as of the date of adjustment, even though the alien may have been in the United States for an extended period of time.

Alien—Any person not a citizen or national of the United States.

Alien Address Report Program—A now-defunct annual registration program for aliens. Until Public Law 97–116 (Act of 12/29/81) eliminated the stipulation, all aliens in the United States were required to register with the Immigration and Naturalization Service each January. Nationality and state of residence data were compiled annually on the alien population reporting under the program. The last year for which data are available is 1980.

Amerasian Act—Public Law 97–359 (Act of 10/22/82) provides for the immigration to the United States of certain Amerasian children. In order to qualify for benefits under this law, an alien must have been born in Cambodia, Korea, Laos, Thailand, or Vietnam after December 31, 1950 and before October 22, 1982, and have been fathered by a U.S. citizen.

Apprehension—The arrest of a deportable alien by the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Each apprehension of the same alien in a fiscal year is counted separately.

Area Control—Enforcement operations conducted by the Immigration and Naturalization Service's Investigations Division to locate and apprehend aliens illegally in the United States. Area Control surveys focus on places of employment where illegal aliens are concentrated.

Asylee—An alien in the United States or at a port of entry unable or unwilling to return to his or her country of nationality, or to seek the protection of that country because of persecution or a well-founded fear of persecution. Persecution or the fear thereof may be based on the alien's race, religion, nationality, membership in a particular social group, or political opinion. For persons with no nationality, the country of nationality is considered to be the country in which the alien last habitually resided. Asylees are eligible to adjust to lawful permanent resident status after one year of continuous presence in the United States. These immigrants are exempt from the worldwide numerical limitation of 270,000; however, the Immigration and Nationality Act stipulates that only 5,000 asylees can adjust per fiscal year.

Beneficiaries—Those aliens who receive immigration benefits from petitions filed with the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. Beneficiaries generally derive privilege or status as a result of their relationship (including that of employer-employee) to a U.S. citizen or lawful permanent resident.

Border Crosser—An alien or citizen resident of the United States reentering the country after an absence of less than six months in Canada or Mexico, or a nonresident alien entering the United States across the Canadian border for stays of no more than six months or across the Mexican border for stays of no more than seventy-two hours, or a U.S. citizen residing in Canada or Mexico who enters the United States frequently for business or pleasure, or an individual entering the United States on any flight originating in Canada or Mexico.

Border Patrol Sector—Any one of twenty geographic areas into which the United States is divided for the Immigration and Naturalization Service's Border Patrol activities. Of the twenty sectors, all but one are located along the northern and southern borders of the United States.

Business Nonimmigrant—An alien coming temporarily to the United States to engage in commercial transactions which do not involve gainful employment in the United States, i.e., engaged in international commerce on behalf of a foreign firm, not employed in the U.S. labor market, and receives no salary from U.S. sources.

Certificate of Citizenship—Identity document proving U.S. citizenship. Certificates of citizenship are issued to derivative citizens and to persons who acquired U.S. citizenship (see definitions for Acquired and Derivative Citizenship).

Child—An unmarried person under 21 years of age who is: a legitimate child; a stepchild provided that the child was under 18 years of age at the time that the marriage creating the stepchild status occurred; a legitimated child provided that the child was legitimate while in the legal custody of the legitimating parent; an illegitimate child (has only one possible parent, the mother); a child adopted while under 16 years of age who has resided since adoption in the legal custody of the adopting parents for at least 2 years; or an orphan, under 16 years of age, who has been adopted abroad by a U.S. citizen or has an immediate-relative visa petition submitted in his or her behalf and is coming to the United States for adoption by a U.S. citizen.

Country of Former Allegiance—The previous country of citizenship of a naturalized U.S. citizen or of a person who derived U.S. citizenship.

Country of Last Residence—The country in which the alien habitually resided prior to entering the United States.

Crewman—A foreign national serving in any capacity on board a vessel or aircraft. Crewmen are admitted for twenty-nine days, with no extensions. Crewmen required to depart on the same vessel on which they arrived are classified as D-1s. Crewmen who depart on a vessel different than the one on which they arrived are classified as D-2s. Although these aliens are technically nonimmigrants, crewmen are not included in nonimmigrant admission data.

Crewman Technical (or Nonwillful) Violator—Any crewman who through no fault of his or her own remains in the United States more than 29 days (e.g., a crewman hospitalized beyond the 29-day admission period).

Cuban/Haitian Entrant—Status accorded 1) Cubans who entered the United States illegally between April 15, 1980 and October 10, 1980, and 2) Haitians who entered the country illegally before January 1, 1981.

Deferred Inspection—See Parolee.

Departure Under Safeguards—The departure of an illegal alien whose departure from the United States is physically observed by an Immigration and Naturalization Service official.

Dependent—A spouse, an unmarried dependent child under 21 years of age, an unmarried dependent child under 25 years of age who is in full-time attendance at a postsecondary educational institution, or an unmarried child who is physically or mentally disabled.

Deportable Alien—An alien in the United States subject to any of the nineteen grounds of deportation specified in the Immigration and Nationality Act. This includes any alien illegally in the United States, regardless of whether the alien entered the country illegally or entered legally but subsequently violated the terms of his or her visa.

Deportation—The formal removal of an alien from the United States when the presence of that alien is deemed inconsistent with the public welfare. Deportation is ordered by an immigration judge without any punishment being imposed or contemplated. Data for a fiscal year cover the deportations verified during that fiscal year. Airlines, ship companies, or port officials provide the Immigration and Naturalization Service with the departure data on aliens who are deported.

Derivative Citizenship— Citizenship conveyed to children through the naturalization of parents or, under certain circumstances, to spouses of citizens at or during marriage. Data for a fiscal year cover the number of certificates of U.S. citizenship issued during the year, regardless of when citizenship was derived. The data are not necessarily a complete accounting of individuals who have derived citizenship since only those individuals who derived citizenship, requested, and were issued a certificate of citizenship from the Immigration and Naturalization Service are covered by the data.

District—Any one of thirty-three geographic areas into which the United States and its territories are divided for the Immigration and Naturalization Service's field operations or one of three overseas offices located in Rome, Bangkok, or Mexico City. Operations are supervised by a district director located at a district office within the district's geographic boundaries.

Exchange Visitor—An alien coming temporarily to the United States as a participant in a program approved by the Secretary of State for the purpose of teaching, instructing or lecturing, studying, observing, conducting research, consulting, demonstrating special skills, or receiving training.

Exclusion—The formal denial of an alien's entry into the United States. The exclusion of the alien is made by an immigration judge after an exclusion hearing. Data for a fiscal year cover the exclusions verified during that fiscal year. Airlines, ship companies, or port officials provide the Immigration and Naturalization Service with the departure data on aliens who are excluded.

Exempt From Numerical Limitations—Those aliens accorded lawful permanent resident status who are exempt from the provisions of the preference system set forth in immigration law. Exempt categories include immediate relatives of U.S. citizens, refugees, special immigrants, and certain other groups of immigrants.

Fiance(ee) of U.S. Citizen—A nonimmigrant alien coming to the United States to conclude a valid marriage with a U.S. citizen within ninety days after entry.

Files Control Office—An Immigration and Naturalization Service field office—either a district (including INS overseas offices) or a suboffice of that district—where alien case files are maintained and controlled.

Fiscal Year—Currently, the twelve-month period beginning October 1 and ending September 30. Historically, until 1831 and from 1843–49, the twelve-month period ending September 30 of the respective year; from 1832–42 and 1850–67, ending December 31 of the respective year; from 1868–1976, ending June 30 of the respective year. The transition quarter (TQ) for 1976 covers the three-month period, July-September 1976.

Foreign Government Official—As a nonimmigrant class of admission, an alien coming temporarily to the United States who has been accredited by a foreign government to function as an ambassador, public minister, career diplomatic or consular officer, other accredited official, or an attendant, servant or personal employee of an accredited official, and all above aliens' spouses and unmarried minor (or dependent) children.

Foreign Information Media Representative—As a nonimmigrant class of admission, an alien coming temporarily to the United States as a bona fide representative of foreign press, radio, film, or other foreign information media and the alien's spouse and unmarried minor (or dependent) children.

Foreign Medical School Graduate—An immigrant who has graduated from a medical school or has qualified to practice medicine in a foreign state, who was licensed and practicing medicine on January 9, 1978, and who entered the United States as a nonimmigrant on a temporary worker or exchange visitor visa before January 10, 1978. The alien must meet the requirements set forth in Public Law 97–116 (Act of 12/29/81) in order to qualify for this immigrant classification. These immigrants and their spouses and children are exempt from the worldwide numerical limitation of 270,000. However, if the sum of these immigrant classes plus the investor immigrant classes plus the numerically restricted classes exceeds the limitations (for a dependency, an independent country, or worldwide) in any fiscal year, the respective limitation of that area is reduced by that excess for the following year.

Foreign State of Chargeability—The independent country to which an immigrant entering under the preference system is accredited. No more than 20,000 immigrant visas may be issued to natives of independent countries in a fiscal year. Dependencies of independent countries cannot exceed 600 of the 20,000 limit. Since these limits are based on visa issuance rather than entries into the United States, there is not total correspondence between these two occurrences, since immigrant visas are valid for four months. Chargeability is usually determined by country of birth. Exceptions are made to prevent the separation of family members when the limitation for the country of birth has been met.

General Naturalization Provisions—The basic requirements for naturalization that every applicant must meet, unless a member of a special class. General provisions require an applicant to be at least eighteen years of age, a lawful permanent resident with five years of continuous residence in the United States, and to have been physically present in the country for at least half of that period.

Geographic Area of Chargeability—Any one of five regions—Africa, East Asia, Latin America and the Caribbean, Near East and South Asia, and the U.S.S.R. and Eastern Europe—into which the world is divided for the initial admission of refugees to the United States. Annual consultations between the Executive Branch and the Congress determine the ceiling on the number of refugees that can be admitted to the United States from each area.

Hemispheric Ceilings—Statutory limits on immigration to the United States in effect from July 1968 to October 1978. Mandated by the Immigration and Nationality Act Amendments of 1965, the ceiling on immigration from the Eastern Hemisphere was set at 170,000, with a per-country limit of 20,000. Immigration from the Western Hemisphere was held to 120,000, without a per-country limit until January 1, 1977. The Western Hemisphere was then subject to a 20,000 per-country limit. Effective October 1978, the separate hemisphere limits were abolished in favor of a worldwide limit of 290,000. This limit was lowered to 280,000 for fiscal year 1980, and to 270,000 for fiscal year 1981 and subsequent years, because refugees were no longer subject to these limitations based on the Refugee Act of 1980.

Immediate Relatives—Certain immigrants who, because of their close relationship to U.S. citizens, are exempt from the numerical limitations imposed on immigration to the United States. Immediate relatives are: spouses of citizens, children (under 21 years of age) of citizens, parents of citizens 21 years of age or older, and orphans adopted by U.S. citizens who are at least 21 years of age.

Immigrant—An alien admitted to the United States as a lawful permanent resident. Immigrants are those persons lawfully accorded the privilege of residing permanently in the United States. They may be issued immigrant visas by the Department of State overseas or adjusted to permanent resident status by the Immigration and Naturalization Service in the United States.

Indefinite Parolee—See Parolee.

International Representative—As a nonimmigrant class of admission, an alien coming temporarily to the United States as a principal or other accredited representative of a foreign government (whether officially recognized or not by the United States) to an international organization, an international organization officer or employee, and all above aliens' spouses and unmarried minor (or dependent) children.

Intracompany Transferee—An alien, employed by an international firm or corporation, who seeks to enter the United States temporarily in order to continue to work for the same employer, or a subsidiary or affiliate, in a capacity that is primarily managerial, executive, or involves specialized knowledge.

Investor—An immigrant who is present in the United States and who, on or before June 1, 1978, qualified as a nonpreference immigrant because the alien had invested capital (before June 1, 1978) in a business in the United States in which the alien was one of the principal managers, and had applied for adjustment to lawful permanent resident status. These immigrants and their spouses and children are exempt from the worldwide numerical limitation of 270,000. However, if the sum of these immigrant classes plus the foreign medical graduate classes plus the numerically restricted classes exceeds the limitations (for a dependency, an independent country, or worldwide) in any fiscal year, the respective limitation of the area is reduced by that excess for the following year. As a nonimmigrant class of admission, see Treaty Trader or Investor.

Labor Certification—Requirement falling on 1) those persons whose immigration to the United States is based on job skills (third, sixth, and nonpreference immigrant categories), and 2) nonimmigrant temporary workers (H-2s) coming to perform services unavailable in the United States. Labor certification is awarded by the Secretary of Labor when there are insufficient numbers of U.S. workers available to undertake the employment sought by an applicant and when the alien's employment will not have an adverse affect on the wages and working conditions of U.S. workers similarly employed. Determination of U.S. labor availability is made at the time of a visa application and at the location where the applicant wishes to work.

Median Age—The age which divides the population into two equal-sized groups, one younger and one older than the median.

Medical and Legal Parolee—See Parolee.

Nationality—The country of a person's citizenship. For nonimmigrant data, citizenship refers to the alien's claimed country of citizenship.

NATO Official—As a nonimmigrant class of admission, an alien coming temporarily to the United States as a member of the armed forces or as a civilian employed by the armed forces on assignment with a foreign government signatory to NATO (North Atlantic Treaty Organization), and the alien's spouse and unmarried minor (or dependent) children.

Naturalization—The conferring, by any means, of citizenship upon a person after birth.

Naturalization Court—Any court authorized to award U.S. citizenship. Jurisdiction for naturalization has been conferred upon the following courts: U.S. District Courts of all states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico; the District Courts of Guam and the Virgin Islands; and state courts. Generally, naturalization courts are authorized to award citizenship only to those persons who reside within their territorial jurisdiction.

Naturalization Petition—The form used by a lawful permanent resident to apply for U.S. citizenship. The petition is filed with a naturalization court through the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

New Arrival—A lawful permanent resident alien who enters the United States at a port of entry. The alien is generally required to present an immigrant visa issued outside the United States by a consular officer of the Department of State. Three classes of immigrants, however, need not have an immigrant visa to enter the U.S.—children born abroad to lawful permanent resident aliens, children born subsequent to the issuance of an immigrant visa to accompanying parents, and American Indians born in Canada.

Nonimmigrant—An alien who seeks temporary entry to the United States for a specific purpose. The alien must have a permanent residence abroad and qualify for the nonimmigrant classification sought. The nonimmigrant classifications are: foreign government officials, visitors for business and for pleasure, aliens in transit through the United States, treaty traders and investors, students, international representatives, temporary workers and trainees, representatives of foreign information media, exchange visitors, fiances(ees) of U.S. citizens, intracompany transferees, and NATO officials. Most nonimmigrant classes can be accompanied or joined by spouses and unmarried minor (or dependent) children. Although refugees, parolees, withdrawals, and stowaways are considered nonimmigrants upon arrival to the United States, these classes as well as crewmen, are not included in nonimmigrant admission data. See other sections of Glossary for detailed descriptions of classes of nonimmigrant admission.

Nonpreference Category—Nonpreference visas are available to any qualified applicant not entitled to one under the other preferences. Nonpreference numbers have been unavailable since September 1978 because of high demand in preference categories.

Occupation—For an alien entering the United States or adjusting without a labor certification, occupation refers to the employment held in the country of last or legal residence or the United States. For an alien with a labor certification, occupation is the employment for which certification has been issued. Labor certification would be issued to third, sixth, and nonpreference immigrants or to nonimmigrant temporary workers (H-2s) performing services unavailable in the United States.

Occupational Preferences—The third and sixth categories of the immigrant preference system. Third preference allows for the admission of members of the professions, and scientists or artists of exceptional ability. Sixth preference covers skilled or unskilled occupations for which labor is in short supply in the United States.

Orphan—For immigration purposes, a child whose parents have died or disappeared, or who has been abandoned or otherwise separated from both parents. An orphan may also be a child whose sole surviving parent is incapable of providing that child with proper care and who has, in writing, irrevocably released the child for emigration and adoption. In order to qualify as an immediate relative, the orphan must be under the age of sixteen at the time a petition is filed on his or her behalf. To enter the United States, an orphan must have been adopted abroad by a U.S. citizen or be coming to the United States for adoption by a citizen.

Panama Canal Act Immigrants—Three categories of special immigrants established by Public Law 96–70 (Act of 9/27/79): 1) certain former employees of the Panama Canal Company or Canal Zone Government, their spouses and children; 2) certain former employees of the U.S. government in the Panama Canal Zone, their spouses and children; and 3) certain former employees of the Panama Canal Company or Canal Zone Government on April 1, 1979, their spouses and children. The Act provides for admission of a maximum of 15,000 immigrants, at a rate of no more than 5,000 a year. They are not, however, subject to the worldwide limitation.

Parolee—An alien, appearing to be inadmissible to the inspecting officer, allowed to enter the United States under emergency (humanitarian) conditions or when that alien's entry is determined to be in the public interest. Parole does not constitute a formal admission to the United States and confers temporary admission status only, requiring parolees to leave when the conditions supporting their parole cease to exist. Although these aliens are technically considered nonimmigrants upon arrival, parolees are not included in nonimmigrant admission data. Definitions of parolees include:

1) Indefinite parolee—Parole is usually set for a specified period of time according to the conditions of parole. In some cases, as conditions warrant, the period of parole is specified as indefinite.

2) Deferred inspection—Parole may be granted to an alien who appears not to be clearly admissible to the inspecting officer. An appointment will be made for the alien's appearance at another Service office where more information is available and the inspection can be completed.

3) Medical and legal parolee—Parole may be granted to an alien who has a serious medical condition which would make detention or return inappropriate or who is to serve as a witness in legal proceedings or is subject to prosecution in the United States.

Per-Country Limit—The maximum number of immigrant visas that can be issued to any one country in a fiscal year. Natives of independent countries can currently be issued no more than 20,000 visa numbers and natives of their dependencies no more than 600 of that total. The per-country limit does not indicate, however, that a country will be given 20,000 visa numbers each year, just that it cannot receive more than that number. Because of the combined workings of the preference system and per-country limits, most countries do not reach this level of visa issuance.

Port of Entry—Any location in the United States or its territories which is designated as a point of entry for aliens and U.S. citizens. All district and files control offices are also considered ports since they become locations of entry for aliens adjusting to immigrant status.

Preinspection—Complete immigration inspection of airport passengers before departure from a foreign country. No further immigration inspection is required upon arrival in the United States other than submission of I-94 forms for nonimmigrant aliens.

Preference System—The six categories among which 270,000 immigrant visa numbers are distributed each year: unmarried sons and daughters (over 21 years of age) of U.S. citizens (20 percent); spouses and unmarried sons and daughters of aliens lawfully admitted for permanent residence (26 percent); members of the professions or persons of exceptional ability in the sciences and arts (10 percent); married sons and daughters of U.S. citizens (10 percent); brothers and sisters of U.S. citizens over 21 years of age (24 percent); and needed skilled or unskilled workers (10 percent). A seventh nonpreference category, historically open to immigrants not entitled to a visa number under one of the six preferences just listed, has had no numbers available since September 1978.

Principal Alien—The alien from whom another alien derives a privilege or status under the immigration law or regulations (usually spouses and minor children).

Refugee—Any person who is outside his or her country of nationality who is unable or unwilling to return to that country because of persecution or a well-founded fear of persecution. Persecution or the fear thereof may be based on the alien's race, religion, nationality, membership in a particular social group, or political opinion. People with no nationality must be outside the country of last habitual residence to qualify as a refugee. Refugees are exempt from numerical limitation and are eligible to adjust to lawful permanent residence after one year of continuous presence in the United States. Although these aliens are considered nonimmigrants when initially admitted to the United States, refugees are not included in nonimmigrant admission data.

Refugee Approvals—The number of refugees approved for admission to the United States during a fiscal year. Refugee approvals are made by Immigration and Naturalization Service officers in overseas offices.

Refugee Arrivals—The number of refugees the Immigration and Naturalization Service initially admits to the United States through ports of entry during a fiscal year.

Refugee Authorized Admissions—The maximum number of refugees allowed to enter the United States in a given fiscal year. As set forth in the Refugee Act of 1980, Public Law 96–212, the annual figure is determined by the President after consultations with Congress.

Refugee Conditional Entrant—An alien who entered the United States or who adjusted to lawful permanent resident status under the seventh preference category of Public Law 89–236 (Act of 10/3/65). Visa numbers for conditional entrants were limited to six percent of the total numerical limitation. The seventh preference was abolished by the Refugee Act of 1980 (P.L. 96-212) and the six-percent limitation was assigned to the second preference. At the same time, the worldwide numerical limit for immigrants was reduced from 290,000 to 270,000 per fiscal year.

Refugee-Parolee—A qualified applicant for conditional entry, between February 1970 and April 1980, whose application for admission to the United States could not be approved because of inadequate numbers of seventh preference visas. As a result, the applicant was paroled into the United States under the parole authority granted the Attorney General.

Region—Any one of four areas of the United States into which the Immigration and Naturalization Service divides jurisdiction for administrative purposes—Eastern Region, Southern Region, Northern Region, and Western Region.

Relative Preferences—The first, second, fourth, and fifth categories of the immigrant preference system. The first preference allows the entry of unmarried sons and daughters (over 21 years of age) of U.S. citizens. The second preference covers spouses and unmarried sons and daughters of aliens lawfully admitted for permanent residence. The fourth preference allows for the entry of married sons and daughters of U.S. citizens. The fifth preference includes the brothers and sisters of U.S. citizens, provided such citizens are at least 21 years of age.

Required Departure—The directed departure of an alien from the United States without an order of deportation. The departure may be voluntary or involuntary on the part of the alien, and may or may not have been preceded by a hearing before an immigration judge. Data for a fiscal year cover the required departures verified in that fiscal year. Airlines, ship companies, or port officials provide the Immigration and Naturalization Service with the departure data on aliens required to depart. Detailed required departure data cover only those aliens placed under docket control. The data do not include aliens who are required to depart directly under safeguards, i.e., those aliens who immediately are turned out of the United States. The latter cases are counted for workload purposes and are included in required departure Tables 54 and 65.

Silva Immigrants—Immigrants from independent Western Hemisphere countries and their spouses and children who were issued preference numbers under the Silva Program (1977–81). The Silva Program was instituted by court order to provide for the recapture of 144,999 preference visa numbers originally used for Cuban refugee adjustments. Silva numbers, although subject to an overall numerical limitation, were assigned in addition to the annual worldwide limitation.

Special Immigrants—Certain categories of immigrants exempt from numerical limitations on visa issuance: persons who lost citizenship by marriage; persons who lost citizenship by serving in foreign armed forces; ministers of religion, their spouses and children; certain employees and former employees of the U.S. government abroad, their spouses and children; Panama Canal Act immigrants; and certain foreign medical school graduates, their spouses and children.

Special Naturalization Provisions—Provisions covering special classes of persons who may be naturalized even though they do not meet all the general requirements for naturalization. Such special provisions allow: 1) wives or husbands of U.S. citizens to be naturalized in three years instead of the prescribed five years; 2) a surviving spouse of a U.S. citizen who served in the armed forces to file in any naturalization court instead of where he or she resides; and 3) children of U.S. citizen parents to be naturalized without meeting the literacy or government-knowledge requirements or taking the oath, if too young to understand the meaning. Other classes of persons who may qualify for special consideration are former U.S. citizens, servicemen, seamen, and employees of organizations promoting U.S. interests abroad.

Stateless—Having no nationality.

Stowaway—An alien coming to the United States surreptitiously on an airplane or vessel without legal status of admission who, therefore, is subject to denial of formal admission and return to the point of embarkation by the transportation carrier.

Student—As a nonimmigrant class of admission, an alien coming temporarily to the United States to pursue a full course of study in an approved program in either an academic (college, university, seminary, conservatory, academic high school, elementary school, other institution, or language training program) or a vocational or other recognized nonacademic institution.

Subject to Numerical Limitations—Condition imposed on all immigration to the United States, except for the immediate relatives of U.S. citizens and certain special immigrants. The number of aliens accorded lawful permanent residence under the provisions of the preference system must not exceed 270,000 in any fiscal year. The preference system provides for the admission of relatives of citizens (other than immediate relatives), immediate relatives of lawful permanent resident aliens, aliens in specified occupations, as well as other immigrants.

Suspension of Deportation—A discretionary benefit adjusting the alien's status from that of deportable alien to one lawfully admitted for permanent residence. Application for suspension of deportation is made during the course of a deportation hearing before an immigration judge.

Temporary Worker—Temporary workers consist of three categories of nonimmigrant alien workers: aliens of distinguished merit and ability coming temporarily to the United States to perform services of an exceptional nature; aliens coming to the United States to perform temporary services or labor, if unemployed persons capable of performing the service cannot be found in the United States; and aliens coming temporarily to the United States as trainees, other than to receive graduate medical education or training.

Transit Alien—An alien in immediate and continuous transit through the United States, with or without a visa, including 1) aliens who qualify as persons entitled to pass in transit to and from the United Nations Headquarters District and foreign countries, and 2) foreign government officials and their spouses and unmarried minor (or dependent) children in transit.

Transition Quarter—The three-month period—July 1 through September 30, 1976— between fiscal year 1976 and fiscal year 1977. At that time, the fiscal year definition shifted from July 1–June 30 to October 1–September 30.

Transit Without Visa (TWOV)—An alien traveling without a nonimmigrant visa under section 238 of the immigration law.

Treaty Trader or Investor—As a nonimmigrant class of admission, an alien coming temporarily to the United States, under the provisions of a treaty of commerce and navigation between the United States and the foreign state of such alien, to carry on substantial trade or to direct the operations of an enterprise in which he has invested a substantial amount of capital, and the alien's spouse and unmarried (or dependent) children.

Unmarried Alien—An alien minor, who is not married at the time an application is filed.

Virgin Islands Adjustment Act—Public Law 97–271 (Act of 9/30/82) providing for the adjustment to lawful permanent resident status of certain nonimmigrants who entered the Virgin Islands as temporary workers or as the spouse or child of such a worker. Aliens who are eligible to adjust under this act must have resided in the Virgin Islands since June 30, 1975.

Withdrawal—An alien's voluntary removal of an application for admission to the United States in lieu of an exclusion hearing before an immigration judge. Although these aliens are technically considered nonimmigrants when applying for entry, withdrawals are not included in the nonimmigrant admission data.

Worldwide Ceiling— The numerical limit imposed on immigrant visa issuance worldwide beginning in fiscal year 1979. The current limitation totals 270,000 visa numbers. Prior to enactment of Public Law 96–212 on March 17, 1980, the worldwide limitation was 290,000. The limitation in fiscal year 1980 was 280,000.
